INTRODUCTION

Lendang Are Village, located in Kopang District, Central Lombok Regency, is an area with significant economic potential supported by its small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs). The region is known for its natural beauty, including the Tandung Andung Reservoir, which has emerged as a new tourist attraction. Leveraging this tourism potential can create opportunities for local SMEs to grow their businesses, particularly in the culinary, handicrafts, and tourism service sectors. However, the local SME owners have limited understanding of digital marketing strategies and business legality, highlighting the need for comprehensive training to help them compete in broader markets.

Despite its promising potential, most SMEs in Lendang Are face various challenges in optimizing their product marketing. A lack of knowledge about modern marketing strategies, especially digital marketing, is one of the main obstacles. Additionally, many SMEs lack legal business status, which hinders their access to financing and broader business opportunities.

Digital marketing theories, such as the 7P model (Product, Price, Place, Promotion, People, Process, Physical Evidence), are highly relevant for SME development. According to Kotler and Keller (2016), digital marketing allows SMEs to expand their market reach without significant costs. Digital marketing tools such as social media, websites, and e-commerce platforms provide opportunities for SMEs to increase visibility and access new consumers (Chaffey & Ellis-Chadwick, 2019). The legal aspect is also crucial, as business legality guarantees the rights and legal protection for business owners, while increasing consumer trust (Putri, 2022). Business legality, including trademark registration and business licensing, is essential for sustainable business operations (Ayu, 2020). Previous studies also demonstrate that effective implementation of digital marketing strategies can increase SME revenues by up to 40% (Santoso & Wibowo, 2021). Furthermore, community service programs in several regions show that business legality training significantly helps SMEs access capital from banks and formal financial institutions (Dewi, 2023)

This training was conducted as an effort to assist SME owners in Lendang Are Village in overcoming these challenges. It is expected to have a positive impact by enhancing marketing skills, particularly through digital platforms, and emphasizing the importance of business legality in supporting their long-term business sustainability.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

The results of the training showed that most participants felt better prepared to face the challenges of marketing and business legality. In the marketing session, participants understood that tourists coming to the Tandung Andung Reservoir could be a potential target market for their local products, especially if marketed with the right strategy through social media. The following table shows the participants' improved understanding of marketing and business legality based on the pre- and post-training questionnaires:

Table 1. Pretest and Posttest Results Analysis and Improvement in Understanding of Entrepreneurship

Category	Pretest (%)	Posttest (%)	Increase (%)
Understanding of Digital Marketing	35%	80%	45%
Social Media Utilization	40%	85%	45%
Business Legality Knowledge	30%	75%	45%
Trademark Registration	25%	70%	45%

The table above shows that the training had a positive impact on improving participants' understanding, particularly in the areas of digital marketing and business legality. Many participants who previously did not have social media accounts for their businesses have now started using them actively. Additionally, participants have also begun processing their business legality through the OSS (Online Single Submission) platform.
